

The selection process of the European Capital of Sport of ACES Europe was performed for its 2017 edition and for the first time, based on the General Regulations Governing the European Capital of Sport Selection Process, approved on September 17, 2014 and subjected to independent review by KPMG under the ISAE 3000 standard.

This review contributed not only to reinforce the independence and firmness of the selection process but also the collection and internal control of the necessary information for the evaluation and presentation of Sofia and Marseille for 2017's award. This review also contributed to reinforce the completion of the voting process in accordance with the Regulations and reliability verification of the information obtained as a result of the voting process on which Marseille will be the European Capital of Sport for 2017 and Sofia, the European Capital of Sport for 2018.
